OUR MOST HISTORIC YEAR

VOLUME 5 of the Maroon and Gray Yearbook is an attempt by the members of the staff to record for history the most eventful year since the founding of the college in 1910.

This year has seen the passing of our founder and late president, Dr. James E. Shepard; an interim period during which a highly efficient committee administered the affairs of the college, and the appointment of Dr. Shepard's successor, Dr. Alfonso Elder.

During this historic year fifteen North Carolina College instructors were awarded grants-in-aid by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, and three others received fellowships from the General Education Board.

Carnegie Grant recipients were Doctors Robert S. Beale, Helen G. Edmonds, W. E. Farrison, Ernst Manasse, J. S. Lee, J. S. Himes, J. Neal Hughley, A. L. Turner, Percy Young; Mrs. J. W. Harris, Mrs. O. R. Livingstone, Stewart B. Fulbright, Earl W. Phillips, and Mrs. Ann McAden Johnson.

Fellowships went to Professor Raleigh Morgan, Mrs. Clara Reid and Prof. L. T. Walker.

The first days of October witnessed the passing of Dr. Shepard on October 6, his touching funeral and memorial service in B. N. Duke Auditorium October 9 and the appointment of an Interim Committee to administer the affairs of the college on October 13. Members of this committee were Dean A. E. Manley of the undergraduate school of arts and sciences; Dean Ruth G. Rush, dean of women, and Dr. A. L. Turner of the N. C. C. Law School.

It was also in October that the North Carolina College male quartet was presented in recital at the Carolina Hotel in Raleigh. The Eagles lost to Morgan 19–6 at the Polo Grounds, New York; to Virginia State 19–0, and Virginia Union University.

The Roland Hayes concert was the highlight of October. November got off with a bang with homecoming on the first day of the month, Miss Grace Coley reigned as homecoming queen and thousands filled Durham Athletic Park to see the Eagles drop a thrilling game to Tennessee State 21–6. North Carolina College won over J. C. Smith but lost to West Virginia State and Shaw University. Concerts were given by Benno Moiseiwitsch, Marian Anderson, Mary Catherine Goetz, and a speech was made by Dr. Benjamin Mays, president of Morehouse College, Atlanta, Georgia.

December 6 featured the radio broadcast of the annual football classic between the Eagles and A. & T. College. The Eagles won 16–0, and there were half-time speeches made by Dean A. E. Manley, President F. D Bluford of A. & T., Coach William Bell, A. & T. and Herman Riddick, N. C. College football coach. President John V. Turner of the Student Council announced to the student body that the Interim Committee had agreed to extend the Christmas Vacation period through January 5.

December also marked the beginning of a series of warm-up trips for the basketball team.

January, 1948, will be remembered whenever the history of North Carolina College is discussed at any time in the future, for there was on the 20th a meeting of the Board of Trustees and Dr. Elder had his dinner interrupted to be told that he had been selected to succeed Dr. Shepard as president of North Carolina College. He began his duties the following morning and immediately launched a campaign for a more democratic administration featuring "a recognition of the unique worth of every individual."

In the sports field the North Carolina College track team starred in the Evening Star Track Meet in Washington, D. C.

February featured the crowning of Altamai Johnson as "Queen of Hearts" following the Union Versus N. C. C., basketball game, on February 14. The Kappa Alpha Psi's Musicale rocked B. N. Duke Auditorium February 27. Eight brilliant students qualified for Alpha Kappa Mu Honorary Society.

The highlight of April was a beginning of a series of student-faculty meetings in which they discussed with Dr. Elder recommendations for liberal changes in the campus code of living.

The time was winding up when May rolled in. There were rehearsals for the senior play, concerts by senior music majors, preparations for the junior-senior prom and thousands of preparations for the commencement exercises. The track team started off the month by winning the North Carolina College relays on May 1. James B. James, Jr., became the next president of the Student Council on May 5, and on the same evening Ruth Morrison gave her voice recital. Later during the month there were piano recitals by Pauline Marsh with Doris Jackson and Musa Steele presenting joint recitals.

April 17 was athletes day and former Coach Bill Burghardt returned as guest speaker; 65 athletes received their letters for excellency in sports, and a good time was had by all at the dinner and dance which climaxed the affair.

Our most historic year ended Monday, May 31, when 226 masters and B. S. degrees were awarded after listening to an address by Dr. Alonzo F. Myers of New York University.

IN MEMORIAM

DR. JAMES EDWARD SHEPARD
Nov. 3, 1875—Oct. 6, 1947

Founder and first president of North Carolina College at Durham.

AS long as there is a North Carolina College and as long as there is education in the United States, the name of Dr. James Edward Shepard will be spoken in reverent tones, and his memory will be cherished, not merely for sentimental reasons but out of utter respect after unbiased appraisals of the many contributions he made throughout his lifetime.

The students and staff of North Carolina College were joined by the entire nation in their love and respect for this great man who earned for himself eternal life in the hearts and minds of those whose lives he touched and influenced.

Among the most fitting tributes to be paid to Dr. Shepard from B. N. Duke Auditorium was by a speaker who said, "Dr. Shepard was admittedly one of the nation's busiest men, but he always kept a part of himself from his formal work and bestowed that part freely upon humanity."

DEDICATION

Dr Alfonso Elder

THIS year's Maroon and Gray is dedicated to the president of the college, Dr. Alfonso Elder, who assumed office January 20, 1948, succeeding the late President James E. Shepard, founder of the institution.

During the few months Dr. Elder has been at the helm, he has endeared himself to all of us through the actual practice of what he believes about democratic administration and genuine respect for the unique worth of every individual.

DR. ELDER AND TRUSTEES

The Staff at Work

Picture 2 shows William A. Tuck, director of publicity, and Miss Bettie E. Cheek, his secretary.

Veterans Guidance Staff

Arthur W. Jackson training officer, James T. Taylor, chief advisor; and Miss Adele Ferguson, secretary.

THE STAFF AT WORK

Reading clockwise, Prof. John L. Stewart, dean of men, is giving directions to his secretary; Dean Albert L. Turner of the Law School is pointing out an important item to Miss Annetta Elam, his secretary. Mrs. Dessa Turner, (right) manager of the canteen, confers with Mrs. Benena Kerr and a few other members of her staff.

Photo 2 pictures Mr. Benjamin Smith at work at his desk in the library school. Mr. Smith also teaches courses in addition to being the library science school director.

Photo 3 is another indication that the North Carolina College Health Center really does a swell job of keeping the students, and the college participants as a whole healthy. Here Dr. J. N. Mills, one of the college physicians, is giving Barbara Chambers a check-up.

Graduate School

GRADUATE SCHOOL

North Carolina College's graduate school of arts and sciences offers courses leading to the masters degree in education, commercial education, English, French, mathematics, music, physical education, psychology, the sciences and social science. The graduate school includes also the Law School, School of Public Health Education and, School of Library Science.

THE LAW SCHOOL has for its purpose the training of young men and women for careers of public service in the administration of justice, and to make more proficient those persons engaged in business or other pursuits in which a knowledge of law is a valuable asset. Faculty members shown here are Joseph Sansom, H. Wilson Gray (extreme left); Dean Albert L. Turner, (extreme right) William B. Harris, (beside Dean Turner) and Frank L. Caldwell.

Graduate School

The graduate school of public health education offers the masters degree in public health. In the top photo the class is participating in a panel discussion and all contributions are being recorded. In the center picture the group is viewing health films, and the lower photo illustrates the selection and evaluation of health education posters.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

Here is proof that the library science school of North Carolina College is steadily and rapidly growing. These are scenes from different phases of the course in library science. These pictures represent ways of binding books, checking on references, using the files, a classroom scene and other phases of library science.

The Senior Class

FROM THE ARCHIVES OF THE CLASS OF 1948

In September, 1944 the class of 1948 came to North Carolina College for Negroes. Junior representatives assisted by Mr. Charles Holmes helped us elect class officers, and we soon had a very substantial treasury. Class officers were: Harold T. Epps, president; Allayne C. Turner, vice president; Vivian Austin, secretary; Pauline Marsh, treasury.

Under the leadership of our president and by the cooperation of the class members the freshman class gave a banquet for the freshman fellows leaving to join the armed forces.

September, 1946 found us running as sophomores.

This year the Campus began to look like a co-ed campus as the fellows returning from the services were gladly welcomed by all.

The class dance ended the sophomore year and we left college to spend a restful summer vacation.

Later lovely Miss Grace Coley was chosen "Miss Homecoming" to reign over all homecoming activities.

It was October 6, around 6:45 p. m. that we heard the tolling of the bell and we were informed that Dr. Shepard had passed. Mere words cannot express our feelings, for we all realized we had lost a great friend, leader and educator. A memorial ceremony was held for the student body October 9 in B. N. Duke Auditorium initiated by the Student Council, John Turner, president.

The question, who would be the next president was a much-discussed one while we saw an efficient Interim Committee named to serve until the new president would be announced. On January 20, 1948, The Board of Trustees announced that Dr. Alfonso Elder would be our new president.

History was being made and right here on North Carolina College–s campus too. Our class president and another law student filed applications for admission to the University of North Carolina law school where there are no Negro students.

The time has come when we must say farewell to our instructors and friends and to North Carolina College. We must leave "the sloping hills, the verdant green" and give up our places at this institution of higher learning to other young men and women desiring to further their education. Meanwhile, we will follow our motto and go "ad adpera per aspera — To The Stars Through Difficulties."

A scholastic average of at least "C" is necessary for membership in the Women's Athletic Association. The campus organization is a member of the Negro Women's Intercollegiate Atheletic Association composed of colleges having an intramural program for women. Each year the N. W. I. A. A. sponsors seasonal sport days at which times representatives from college W. A. A.'s come together and participate in sports with awards given to the winning team.

By cooperating with W. A. A.'s all over the country the local group has done an excellent job of furthering a spirit of sportsmanship interest in athletics and physical well-being among college women.

During the current year the association has sponsored major, minor and individual sports in addition to such activities as dancing, swimming and hiking.

Awards are made on the basis of points which are earned by participation in the activities over a four year period.

From the Life of the Founder

The Death of Dr. James E. Shepard, founder of N. C. C., October 6, 1947 marked the passing of an era in Negro Education for he was among the last of the pioneering educators who built schools and gave a personal touch to administration. During his career Dr. Shepard counted greatly on the love of his family and friends, and the top center photo is typical of the many testimonials given in his honor. It was a part of his annual plan to bring to his students the top men of the nation as speakers. On the left (top) he listens to Governor Ellis Arnall of Georgia, and on the right he chats with Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, Jr. of New York. In the lower center photo Dr. Shepard is greeting Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. He was greatly in demand as a speaker himself, for he always had a message for his people as well as the people of the world. His annual state-wide radio message became an institution of goodwill. During the recent war he spoke frequently to soldier groups at Camp Buttner. The lower left picture was the last made of Dr. Shepard. The occasion was the appointment of Marion S. Johnson as the first full time executive secretary of the N. C. C. Alumni Association.

EDUCATION

Webster defines "knowledge" as "The clear perception of a truth, fact, or subject. Information gained and preserved."

For over 56 years, The AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers have devoted themselves to the dissemination and preservation of "clear perceptions of the truth, and facts" about colored America. John Russworm's "Freedom's Journal" initiated the fight for freedom from slavery in 1840, The AFRO-AMERICAN has carried on the fight for freedom from ignorance since 1892.

Every well informed colored American reads some Negro newspaper regularly . . . nearly a million of them prefer to read
